

January 3, 2007

Washington - United States Representative Charlie Wilson (D-OH) vowed to be a “strong voice for working families and a common sense” Congressman when he took the oath of office this afternoon. Wilson, who represents the Sixth District, was sworn in during the opening ceremony of the 110th Congress in the House chamber of the U.S. Capitol.

January 3, 2007

Washington - United States Representative Charlie Wilson (D-OH) vowed to be a “strong voice for working families and a common sense” Congressman when he took the oath of office this afternoon. Wilson, who represents the Sixth District, was sworn in during the opening ceremony of the 110th Congress in the House chamber of the U.S. Capitol.

“I am deeply honored and humbled by the support of the people of the Sixth District. I will work day and night to do them proud,” said Congressman Wilson. “I will always stand up for Ohio’s working families, and I look forward to bringing our area back on track.”

The 110th Congress is set to go straight to work, tackling an ambitious “100 Hours” agenda that includes:

- raising the minimum wage
- cutting interest on student loans
- pushing for the adoption of the 9/11 Commission’s recommendations
- passing ethics reforms

